DON'T BECOME A STATISTIC

Of New York's 65,000 annual deer-vehicle collisions, most occur October - December

- Use caution when driving at dawn or dusk when most collisions occur.
- Slow down when you see animals nearby; they may bolt into the road.
- Deer and moose often travel in pairs or groups, so if a deer or moose are spotted crossing the road, slow down, others may follow.
- Use emergency flashers or headlights to warn approaching drivers.
- If a deer runs in front of your vehicle, brake firmly but do not swerve. Swerving could cause your vehicle to strike a pedestrian, tree or utility pole.
